

Jevons' Paradox

When you make using a resource more efficient, people often end up using more of it.

If you measure people on...
...the efficiency of each individual unit.

Then you might get...
...a massive increase in total consumption.

